

To whom it may concern:

Mary Catherine Coolidge has been in charge of our public relations for several years and we could not be happier with the work she has done and continues to do on behalf of the Church of the Redeemer. She is a model of professionalism in the way she goes about her responsibilities. A parish such as ours has many people involved in various activities which need to be made known both in-house and to the larger public. She somehow is able to keep abreast of everything, sensing what needs her attention and what doesn't. She is a master wordsmith and with an economy of time is able to produce high quality work that is consistent with the image we wish to convey to the community. Mary Catherine has excellent relationships with the various media in our community, which is a tremendous help in fostering cooperation in their coverage of our activities, much of which coverage is at no charge to the parish. The result of her work is that during her tenure the Church of the Redeemer has enjoyed a much higher profile in the community.

Mary Catherine is a joy to work with. Our staff all have the greatest respect and affection for her. Her demeanor is always pleasant and she is able to work well with all kinds of people, which is important especially in our setting, in which we have so many volunteers with a high variety of disposition! Her communication skills are amazing. We have all learned a great deal simply from the way she goes about her work.

As should be obvious by now, I have only the highest regard for Mary Catherine Coolidge, both as a professional on my staff and as a person. I would be most happy to speak with anyone about her and to answer any questions.

Faithfully yours,

The Rev. Fredrick A. Robinson
Rector, The Church of the Redeemer
